Snowstorm Hits Traffic In Minot Area

The first snowstorm of the season swept into northwestern North Dakota last night, leaving several inches of wet snow, that was beginning to freeze in Minot at midnight.

Highway traffic was at a virtual standstill. The United Press reported from Minot, with heavy rain and snow, that the snow was falling in heavy sheets and cars stalled at the side of the road.

Heavy wet snow in Minot drove most cars from the streets, with taxis still operating at midnight, but with increasing difficulty.

Several minor accidents occurred in Minot because of slippery streets, the report said, and the Ward county sheriff's office was investigating one said to have occurred on Highway 83 near North Fork.

Roads stations were warning motorists to stay off the highways. One driver said he took three hours to drive the 28 miles from Minot to Grand Forks.

The snow began at 6 p.m. after a day-long rain, and was still falling at midnight. There was wind, but the snow was too heavy and too fast to drive, the weather bureau said.

Rain that fell yesterday and last night over most of the Dakotas and Minnesota hampered first-day hunters and halted the sugar beet and potato harvest. Snow rain or sleet was forecast for today, with a high temperature of 35-40 and a low of 20-25.

Hunter, N. D., had the heaviest snow in the state, with a 24-hour period, with falling hail and snow, and a total of 2.20 inches. The snow was heaviest in the downtown district. Fargo-Moorhead had a 24-hour period, with a total of 1.20 inches, with a high of 30.30 and a low of 20.30. Grand Forks had a 24-hour period, with a total of 1.20 inches, with a high of 30.30 and a low of 20.30.

WDAY Has New Station Site; 3 Fargoans Buy Old Orpheum

Two of the most important real estate transfers of the year in downtown Fargo were announced at the week end.

They involve the acquiring of a new site on Fifth at WDAY for the radio station, and the purchase of the Orpheum theater property, 611 N. P. by three Fargoans, John McCormick, Steve Gorman and Don Phillips.

Some time ago WDAY acquired the Orpheum theater property, intending to remodel it for the station's permanent home, but found this was impractical.

It exchanged the Orpheum theater property with Harry Aronson, president of the W. W. Lane company, for a tract owned by Aronson on Fifth at just north of the Orpheum.

The new home site acquired by WDAY has a frontage of 125 feet on the east side of Fifth at, and a depth of 141 feet to the rear.

E. C. Binkley, president of the Orpheum theater company, and his partners are engaged in preliminary plans to build a new theater in advance of the building plans.

John McCormick, Steve Gorman and Don Phillips, who own the new station, are planning to build a new theater in advance of the building plans.

Cold, Rainy Weather Opens Duck And Pheasant Seasons

North Dakota hunters get their full share of nature's gifts and now crop: Story on Page 1.

It was well weather for ducks yesterday, if the roads to the duck ponds weren't too muddy. Most North Dakota and Minnesota hunters agreed to agree last night. Pheasant hunters weren't nearly so satisfied. The cold, rainy day with snow reported in parts of western North Dakota made the birds hard to flush and made the hunters' work more difficult.

But hunters who weren't bothered by muddy roads found plenty of birds in many areas, although the weather was not ideal.
